Dear WILLIAM BAHN,

Re: Approval for Accreditation for Specific Commissioning Process Provider as Designated by the University of Wisconsin – Madison

The Commissioning Process Provider Accreditation Committee in Interdisciplinary Professional Programs has evaluated your accumulative requirements for education and examination, and you have been given the following education certification accreditation.

Building Enclosure Commissioning Process Provider and Commissioning Authority+Building Enclosure, BECxP and CxA+BE

Limited to Issued Accreditation

This accreditation is strictly a designation that you have met the minimum requirements as set forth by Interdisciplinary Professional Programs (InterPro) for the educational and testing requirements for one of our education certifications related to the commissioning process practice. This includes completing the required educational requirements and successfully completing the appropriate examination.

This accreditation by InterPro does not imply a guaranteed level of competency, proficiency, knowledge, ability to communicate or implement the Commissioning Process (CxP) in practice; other than as best determined by the review of documents provided and direct or indirect knowledge of your experience. A best effort has been made to establish requirements for issue of each commissioning process accreditation to provide a reasonable level of confidence that the person receiving the designation from InterPro will be able to bring high value to their employer or clients. In agreeing to accept this certification from the University of Wisconsin, you in no form shall indicate that the University of Wisconsin – Madison has any responsibility for your practice and in fact shall consider the University of Wisconsin – Madison indemnified of all risks and liabilities related to your practice of commissioning process.

Five-Year Limit

The designated accreditation is provided to those who are actively practicing the principles of the commissioning process, with the understanding that they will continue to practice the quality principles of the commissioning process. However, you will be required to re-accredit five years from December 31 of the year of this letter for the certification you received to insure that continuing requirements are met. This includes the completion of a self-testing or limited supervised requirement evaluation and evidence of continual practice of the commissioning process during the five years prior to re-certification.

Congratulations,

Edward G. Borbely
